

DEFIES M'DONALD TO TELL IT ALL

Lester Freed's Open Letter a
Stinging Rebuke to Ugly
Insinuations.

CHARGES BREACH OF FAITH SAYS M'DONALD'S STATEMENTS CALL FOR EXPLANATION.

Lester D. Freed, director of the Utah State Fair association, yesterday afternoon gave out for publication copies of an open letter sent to President J. G. McDonald with reference to portions of an interview given to The Herald by Mr. McDonald, and published Wednesday evening. Efforts made to reach Mr. McDonald last evening in order to secure his reply to Mr. Freed's letter were unavailing. The letter follows:

"Mr. J. G. McDonald, City.—Dear Sir:—You are quoted in this morning's papers as follows:

"I will be true to my trust. If Mr. Freed has made any statement, I think it unwise in him, and I think he will regret it. There may be something to say about Mr. Freed's position in this matter later, after I have talked with the other members of the board. Just at present I wish to protect him."

"Also, with saying that 'after I had visited the track' I had 'experienced a sudden change of heart which you were at a loss to account for,' and later, in the same article, 'that an agreement had been made that nothing be said about the proceedings of the meeting,' and

"In view of this promise, I do not care to discuss the meeting. I am sorry that Mr. Freed has said anything. His position in the matter is an undesirable one, and were the whole story of Mr. Freed's fight upon this question told it would not reflect credit upon him. He is a good fellow, and I dislike to see him placed in such an unfavorable light. For that reason, I shall endeavor to protect him. Of course, if he wishes the whole story to be told, there are things to be said."

"The foregoing quotations need an explanation. My position upon the board as a director of the Utah State Fair association was a public trust, and as such I was accountable to every citizen of the state of Utah, consequently, if there is any act of mine which needs any explanation the people of this state are entitled to it, and from the quotations above referred to, I assume that you are familiar with some fact which needs an explanation."

"I do not wish you to constitute yourself, in any sense, my guardian, or to consider that the duty devolves upon you to protect me in any misconduct of which you assume I have been guilty."

Wants Load Lifted.

"As a former servant of the people of the state of Utah, I demand that you relieve yourself of the load which you think you are carrying, and make public any fact which you have within your peculiar knowledge of any misconduct upon my part."

"Assuming that I have given you any trust to which you would be true, I now relieve you from any obligation, and not only ask you to make public any fact which you may have, but absolutely demand it."

"In my humble judgment you were guilty of a breach of good faith in your refusal to grant to Mr. Finn and Mr. Gleason a ten days' extension of the racing meet."

"It may be that the state fairs of Utah may succeed in spite of you; but if the state fairs of Utah ever become successful and a pride to our state, it will be in spite of you."

"When I became a director I assumed the Utah State Fair association was composed of a number of individuals who were to work for the good of this state, but I find that the association is J. G. McDonald, and knowing nothing of the candy business, I found I could be of no service to you, and have come to the conclusion that as long as you are running the association others are not needed."

"The opportunity is now given you to make known to the people of the state the conduct of one of its servants, and that the zealous president of the Utah State Fair association (for you are zealous, are you not, Mr. McDonald?) has made known all which he knows."

"In order that you might feel in time to come that this letter had not been delivered, I am handing a copy of it to the newspapers of Salt Lake City, and in event your mail should miscarry, you may read this in the public press. Yours truly,

"LESTER D. FREED."

Death Believed to Have Been
Due to Natural Causes—
No Identification.

Lying in a patch of weeds obscured almost from public view, the body of an unidentified man was found at about 8 o'clock last night at Third West, between Second and Third South streets. It was removed to the undertaking parlors of O'Donnell & Co., 263 South West Temple street, where several persons called, but none was able to identify it.

It is the belief of the police that the man was a Greek laborer, and that death was due to heart disease. He is thought to have been seized with a heart attack and stepped from the street to a spot where he could rest. The body lay near an abandoned sidetrack in the vicinity of the Oregon Short Line station. Its position indicated that the man may have been sitting on the edge of a tie and toppled to the side of the track upon expiring.

The man was clothed in the common dress of the railroad laborer, and appeared to be in the neighborhood of 40 years old, with black hair, short stubby mustache and of dark complexion. No marks of violence or other evidences of an unnatural death were found. The police believe the man died from natural causes.

The discovery was made by a railroad employee. No papers or anything else to assist in the identification were found in the pockets.

HOME OF HER DAUGHTER

Body Will Be Brought From Santa Fe for Interment—Funeral Probably Monday.

News of the death of Mrs. Stevenson, formerly of this city, reached here yesterday from Santa Fe, N. M. Mrs. Stevenson was the widow of the late Colonel Charles Stevenson, and the family was one of the best known here in earlier days.

Mrs. Stevenson has for the last year or so made her home with her daughter, Mrs. James L. Seligman, who was Ruth Stevenson. Her other daughter, Mrs. George Garretson, lives in Denver, and four sons, Holland, Charles, Benjamin and Robert, are all living.

The body will be brought here for burial beside Colonel Stevenson, who is laid in Mount Olivet cemetery. Mrs. Seligman going directly to Mrs. A. M. Walcott's home on Fifth East street. It is probable that nearly all her children will be here for the funeral, which will likely be on Monday next.

TWO ILL-TREATED WIVES
ASK COURT FOR RELIEF

Two wives who had been poorly provided with the necessities of life by their husbands applied to the district court yesterday for relief. Mrs. Brown said that since November of last year she had been compelled to depend upon the charity of friends and what little she could earn. She asked for the custody of her child, a boy 2 years old, $25 attorney's fees and $10 a month alimony. She was married to James Brown at Ogden, January 15, 1906.

Emma G. Taylor makes the same complaint. She was married to James Brown at Ogden, August 7, 1907. She wants her maiden name of Taylor restored, $100 attorney's fees, $30 a month alimony. There are property questions, but she says these have been settled.

RESOLUTIONS ON DEATH OF JUDGE H. P. HENDERSON

Supreme Court and Members of State Bar Publicly Express Grief—Several Speeches.

The supreme court of Utah and the State Bar association yesterday made public expression of their grief in the death of H. P. Henderson, a former justice of the supreme court, at a gathering held in the supreme court chamber at noon. After adoption of resolutions and addresses the court formally adjourned until June 20.

Parley L. Williams was the chief speaker, and C. S. Varian was chairman of the committee presenting the resolutions. Other speakers were C. S. Zane, former chief justice, and A. R. Haywood of Ogden, on behalf of the court. All the speakers referred to the services of Judge Henderson as a justice of the supreme court, to his integrity as a member of the bar, his usefulness as a citizen and his kindness to all with whom he came in contact. The late judge was several times referred to as the highest ideal of the typical American.

The resolutions adopted were:

"Whereas, Henry Perry Henderson, lately a member of the State Bar association of Utah, has been called by death from a life of great usefulness and usefulness in this community; and

"Whereas, The said bar association would perpetuate in an enduring record a just estimate of his life and character; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That his judicial services, extending through a period of four years, and under peculiar and exacting conditions, were of significant and lasting value to the profession and the people.

"Resolved, That in his professional life he was constant in endeavor to maintain that standard of ethics which regards law as a minister of justice and never admits success in results achieved through unprofessional and unworthy means. As a lawyer he enjoyed the fullest confidence of the people and his brethren, who mourn his death as a personal grief.

"Resolved, That in the larger field of citizenship, in his daily intercourse with his fellows, he made a strong and lasting impression. His convictions of private and public duty were formed along the lines of right thinking, and all his life his influence was given to the support of law and morality and for the uplift of society.

"Resolved, That these resolutions be presented to the supreme court of the state of Utah for permanent record and that a copy thereof be transmitted to the widow."

STORIES OF POLICE COURT

Harry King, Whose Wife Left Him at Home With the Babies, While She Went to the Salt Palace, Thinks Man He "Licked" Should Be in Court.

When Harry King appeared for hearing in police court yesterday Judge Bowman seemed puzzled as to the proper way of settling the case. King was charged with battery C. E. Sain, said to be an employee at the Salt Palace, had been his victim in a fight the night before. King admitted whipping him. He also admitted engaging in a fight at the resort on another night this week.

"But what was I to do?" he asked. "My wife hadn't been home for three days, and I went to the Salt Palace and found her in company with other men. She had left me at home with two children, and I had my work to do as well. When I asked her to come home she whipped him instead. I really think the other fellow ought to be here to answer this charge, instead of me."

Judge Bowman seemed to think the same thing. He suspended sentence and told the prisoner to go, but to report to the court on July 10 to prove that he was keeping the peace.

J. Johnson, a resident of Salt Lake, whose family maintains a home here, wishes to know what vagrancy is. It is probable that nearly all his children will be here for the funeral, which will likely be on Monday next.

Frank McDonald was drunk, and he wasn't drunk, when arrested on Wednesday night.

OLD FOLKS TO INVAD E SALT LAKE AND TAKE POSSESSION OF THE CITY

Next Tuesday, June 29, will be Old Folks day, and the celebration now planned by the central committee promises to outdo all former attempts to make this a day of pleasure and feasting for the aged people of the city and state. It is expected there will be at least 4,000 old people entertained in the city on next Tuesday, and crowds will be gathered from every hamlet and town on the north from Salt Lake as far as Brigham City and the south as far as Payson.

The people from the south will be brought to this city over the Denver & Rio Grande railroad, the train leaving Payson at 7 o'clock. The old folks from the north will arrive over the Oregon Short Line railroad, the special train leaving Brigham City at 7:30 o'clock. Both trains will arrive at their respective depots at 10 o'clock, where the visitors will be taken in automobiles and given a sight-seeing trip over the city. The Fifteenth United States infantry band will be stationed at the Oregon Short Line depot, the Ladies' G. A. R. band at the Rio Grande Western depot, and Held's band at the Brigham Young monument. The bands have donated their services free of charge on this date and will play on the temple grounds during the luncheon.

After the parade the visitors will be taken to the temple square, entrance through the north gate, where an elaborate luncheon will be spread. The old folks of Salt Lake City are requested to be at the south gate of the temple grounds and will be admitted at 12 o'clock. All the bishops of the Mormon church and pastors of other churches in Salt Lake City are requested to call on Secretary Barton at the presiding bishop's office and secure badges for the old folks of their respective churches. The age limit this year has been placed at 70 years, and no person under that age will be admitted to the entertainment, which is for all old folks, irrespective of race, color or creed. The judgment by default was entered in Judge C. W. Morse's division of the court yesterday for $44, with $300 attorney's fees, in favor of F. T. Hiatt against William E. Hubbard and Frank N. Taylor, who are suing on a note in favor of Kelsey & Gillsple for $2,500 and for foreclosure on lots in East Waterloo addition, on which the notes were secured.

H. J. Armstrong on Thursday filed suit against the Salt Lake Security & Trust company to recover on a check for $250, which the company had deposited with the company to cover an indebtedness of $620 and converted to the use of the company.

GARBAGE HAULING TO LOW BIDDER

Council Considers Matter and Resolves to Solicit Tenders for Job.

The city will farm out its garbage collecting if low enough bids can be obtained to warrant such a proceeding. For a long time back those who know have been disgusted with the manner in which the garbage has been collected. Cans have been allowed to stand for days in the bright sun, and even in the business district collections were infrequent.

At the meeting of the sanitary committee for the city council last evening Frank Raleigh's proposition to collect the garbage for $800 a month, if given a contract for three years, was considered. The proposal looked good, as it is now costing over $900 to do the work in the present haphazard fashion.

But there were objections to letting the contract to Mr. Raleigh without tenders. The committee, therefore, decided to recommend that the city be instructed to solicit bids for hauling garbage for the entire city, the health commissioner to furnish the routes and requirements, including days of service for each district.

The committee will recommend that the petition of Heber S. Cutler and forty-five other residents below Ninth South street for an extension of the garbage district be denied.

EXECUTORS TO ACCOUNT TO COURT FOR ESTATE

Daughter of the Late Thomas M. Allison Claims Brothers Have Squandered Property.

A petition of Mrs. Emma G. Allison Dryburgh, daughter of Thomas M. Allison, who died at Sandy, August 30, 1885, for an account of her father's estate, will come before Judge T. D. Lewis of the district court this morning. Three sons, Thomas M., George Albert and John Henry Allison, are the executors, and their sister charges that they have never rendered an account, are negligent in their duties and have squandered the estate.

She feels that it is unsafe for her to remain on their bond, and asks to be released. Allison, by his will, directed the sale of 100 acres of land near Smithfield, Cache county, to pay his debts; left an acre of land at Sandy to two of his sons, and three acres each to his three daughters. His first son, he bequeathed in his will away from him and he cut off her children with a dollar each. The rest of his property was left to his second wife.

FOUR PRISONERS COME FROM EMERY COUNTY

Oscar Beebe, sheriff of Emery county, yesterday brought in four prisoners to hand over to Warden Arthur Pratt of the state prison. Three of these, Lamar Killip, Oscar Jensen and Magnus Knudsen, broke into a saloon at Huntington, and on Wednesday pleaded guilty before Judge A. R. Christian of the seventh judicial district, receiving sentences of six months each.

All are mere boys and of good families. Akeland, the other prisoner, will stay with Warden Pratt for three years, having been convicted of forgery committed at Ferron.

MURRAY.

A pretty musical event took place in Murray last evening, when the Apollo Club entertained a large audience. The members of the male musical organization sang their way into the hearts of the large audience present. The affair was not advertised as it should have been, and the result was that not a very large audience was present.

The Oregon Short Line is now employing more men than ever before. This is due to the fact that the company has been necessitated to do the work at the smelters in Murray and vicinity. At the present time two switch engines are doing all the work of the United States smelter, while at Murray three engines are constantly kept busy. There is also an engine working between Murray and Sandy. Charles Beaver, the new yardmaster, now has his headquarters in Murray.

STATE OFFICERS MAKE CHANGES

Shifts Are Necessary in Joint
Building to Make More Room.

The state board of examiners is now engaged in a readjustment of the state offices in the city and county building. A demand is being made on all sides for more room.

The first office to be moved is that of Fred W. Chambers, state fish and game commissioner, who will be found on Monday in the Dooly block on Second South and West Temple streets, in an office adjoining that of Colonel George B. Squires, state insurance commissioner.

The state auditor must have more room, and it is proposed to move A. C. Nelson, state superintendent of schools, up town and give the auditor his rooms across the hall from the governor. The juvenile court will then take the two small rooms on the fourth floor, which the auditor is leaving.

These are anything but suitable, but the court is in the position of being told to do whatever it can get—not what it wants.

Some other changes are possible. The state land board now has comfortable offices, but is little needed in connection with the other state offices. It is suggested that a good move would be to put the land board and the auditor together somewhere up in the business district, which would facilitate the work of both.

GUARDSMEN TO TAKE PART IN ENCAMPMENT

Under the head of General Orders No. 12, from the headquarters of the national guard of Utah, E. A. Wedgwood, adjutant general, has announced that the annual encampment will be held in the near vicinity of Salt Lake between the dates of Aug. 8 to 15. Several sites for the camp are being considered by the commanding officers of the guard, but the final selection has not been designated.

The camp of the national guard of Utah is to be held near this city in order that the guard may participate in the parade of the Grand Army of the Republic. It is expected that there will be about 500 national guardsmen in the parade, as each organization of the state guard is expected to muster at least fifty men.

CRITICISES METHODS OF RETAIL CLERKS

At the regular monthly meeting of the Utah Manufacturers' association last evening John D. Spencer delivered a lecture on "Salesmanship," but on account of the poor attendance at the meeting he did not go into details on the subject. Mr. Spencer gave the Salt Lake retail clerks some hard blows on their methods, but placed the blame for indifferent methods on the shoulders of the merchants and manufacturers. He said that sufficient attention had not been given this most important part of business and advised the people who have things to sell to start at once to educate their clerks on the more advanced methods of selling goods.

The early part of the evening was taken up with routine matters of the association.
